

For the first time in history, Switzerland will have a uniform Code of Civil Procedure covering the entire federal territory, beginning from 1 January 2011. Such unification shall help the users of the law to find more transparency and certainty.

The present edition contains an unofficial translation of the Swiss Code of Civil Procedure (CCP) including a short summary of the CCP as well as an unofficial translation of the Code on Private International Law (CPIL). Furthermore, the edition includes the official translations of the former and revised Lugano Convention (LC).