

Eugen Bucher

Dr. iur., Attorney-at-Law, Professor emeritus, University of Bern

England and the Continent

Distinguishing the Peculiarities of the English Common Law of Contract

Translated from the printed German text by Tony Weir, Trinity College, Cambridge

Contents

I. Introduction	9
II. Preliminary Remarks on Method, and on Frustration	11
1. Impossibility of Performance of the Contract	11
2. The Coronation Cases and the Birth of Frustration	12
3. Evaluation	14
III. Consideration: the Doctrine and its Historical Background	16
1. Preliminary	16
2. Pinnel's Case	18
3. The traditional connection between obligation and property, and the disregard of unremunerated transactions	19
a) Delivery of an Object as a Precondition of Validity	19
b) No clear distinction between real and personal claims	22
c) Gifts Require a Countergift	23
d) The Consensual Element in Dispositions of Property	24
4. The Emergence of a Doctrine of Consideration	25
5. Excursus: consideration and causa	28
IV. Procedural Roots of the Requirement of Consideration	31
1. The Original Position: Consensual Claims are not Actionable	31
a) Contractual Claims Inadmissible in the Common Law Courts	31
b) Historical Background	32
2. First Moves towards Granting Claims in Contract	34
3. Assumpsit – the Form of Action which gave rise to the Requirement of Consideration	35
a) The Stages of Development	35
b) Consideration and Delict?	37
V. England focuses on the promise not on the contract	39
1. Contract Outside England	39
2. English Law focuses on the individual's promise	40
3. Doctrine	41
4. A mere Promise is not binding	44

VI. The Primary Function of Consideration: Connecting the two Promises	46
VII. The Extension of the Function of Consideration	48
1. The Reasons for it	48
2. Differing Effects	49
3. It is the validity of consideration rather than of the contract itself which is critical	50
a) Legality of consideration	50
b) Consideration must move from the promisee	51
4. Further aspects of consideration	52
a) Past consideration and executed consideration	52
b) Sufficiency: peppercorn or some value?	53
VIII. In Conclusion	55