

THE WORLD OF INTERIORS

by

MARC CAMILLE CHAIMOWICZ

migros museum für gegenwartskunst Zürich

CONTENTS

12

WALLPAPERS & CARPETS

How an aesthetic may court anonymity ... to then become a backdrop for the day-to-day.

26

THE WARSAW SUITE

The unique status of easel painting is hijacked by contemporary concerns.

42

SHOEWASTE ?

From gutter to museum, the once-worn or abject are aestheticized.

62

DREAM, AN ANECDOTE

A dream from 30 years ago, then the basis for a publication ... is in turn adapted for print.

84

HERE AND THERE

The intimate – as matter – negotiates its antithesis.

106

“JEAN COCTEAU”, A PROVISIONAL INTERIOR

Roger Cook and Alex Farquarson meander through a fictive portrait of the poet, here notable by his absence.

124

FARMHOUSE BEDROOM

From rural England to the magazine page – a work from England’s finest is redressed.

130

FROM DE CAMONDO TO PROUST

A high point of punctuation in the majestic work of Marcel Proust lends itself to architectural metaphor.

134

CELEBRATION? REALIFE

The fluidity of the work is echoed through various incarnations.

149

GIACOMETTI MEETS MARSHAL MCLUHAN ...

Or how, unbeknown to the artist, a work of 1950 is re-interpreted.

165

EILEEN GRAY

A mid 20th century priestess is remembered by graphic comment.

172

THIS IS NOT A FLAT

178

WHEN IN LONDON ...

182

THE PASTEBOARD PALACE

During the 1930s, Chick Austin transformed the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford, Connecticut, from a fusty provincial museum into a cultural trailblazer.

201

MADAME BOVARY

A masterpiece of 19th century literary portraiture prompts a visual retort.

207

(ONE OF) FOUR ROOMS, A SOPHISTIC EXERCISE

How, in 1984, a couple intervene within an artwork, in order to complete it through visual narrative.