

The Swiss and Their Neighbours,
1460–1560

Between Accommodation and Aggression

TOM SCOTT

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Maps	xiii
Note on Usage	xiv
List of Abbreviations	xv
Introduction	1
I. ACCOMMODATION
1. Setting the Scene	7
2. The Occupation of the Thurgau	12
3. From War to Peace	19
4. Trouble in the Thurgau	23
5. Konstanz's Dilemma	26
6. The Swiss or Swabian War of 1499	30
7. Raids and Retaliation	34
8. The Peace of Basel and Its Aftermath	39
9. The Hereditary Agreement of 1511	45
10. Calm amidst the Storm	48
11. A Last Hurrah	53
12. Conclusion to Part I: Frontiers Mental and Physical	55
II. AGGRESSION
13. The Romandie: An Open Landscape	61
14. The Romandie: A Commercial Crossroads	67
15. The Burgundian Wars	73
16. A Contested Outcome	79
17. The Troubled Inheritance of Duke Charles II of Savoy	84
18. The Dufour Affair	89
19. All Unquiet on the Western Front	96

20. Savoy Strikes Back	103
21. The Struggle for Geneva	111
22. War or Peace?	118
23. Religion or Politics?	126
24. The Year of the French	133
25. The Vagaries of Conquest	141
26. The Spoils of War	148
27. Faction in Geneva	155
28. The Romandie Reconfigured	158
29. Conclusion to Part II: Motives and Outcomes	166
Conclusion	172
Glossary	178
Chronology	181
Note on Sources	192
Bibliography	194
Index	210

List of Maps

1. North-Eastern Switzerland	8
2. Thurgau and Hochrhein	14
3. Eastern France and Western Switzerland	63
4. Romandie	70
5. Savoy	82