

Nations and Nationalism in the
Theology of Karl Barth

CARYS MOSELEY

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Introduction	1
Reading Karl Barth across the fourfold division of German Protestant theology	3
Nationalism in western thought: wider issues in scholarship	9
The present book's contribution to Barth studies	12
Plan of this book	31
1. Displacing Patriotism	33
Swiss patriotism as mediator of Christian socialism	33
The break with liberal Protestant theology	43
Restoring the Spirit of Pentecost	49
2. Discarding False Foundations	65
The Göttingen years	65
The move to Münster	83
3. Nationalism as Idolatry	98
From dogmatics to homiletics	98
Responding to the rise of National Socialism	107
Dogmatics against idolatry	117
4. Election, Nation, and State	134
Reworking Calvin on election and the state	134
The theological response to the Second World War	142
The ethical and political implications of election	149
5. Encountering our Neighbours	169
Israel and the providential order	169
Nationhood within the command of God	176
Nationhood according to theological exegesis	187
Conclusion	203
Bibliography	207
Index	217