

The Cambridge Introduction to
Thomas Mann

TODD KONTJE

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Chronology	page vii
1 Introduction	1
Keywords	2
2 Origins, influences, and early mastery	13
Childhood and early influences	13
First novellas	18
Buddenbrooks: The Decline of a Family	24
3 Artists and outcasts in Mann's early fiction	33
Tonio Kröger	34
Artists, ascetics, and outcasts	37
Marriage and the artist	41
Death in Venice	46
4 From world war to the Weimar Republic	54
Mann's wartime journalism	54
The evolution of Mann's political thought	58
A return to literature	61
The Magic Mountain	63
5 The struggle against National Socialism	73
Joseph and his Brothers	78
Disorder and Early Sorrow and Mario and the Magician	85

Lotte in Weimar	91
Transposed Heads and The Tables of the Law	96
6 A pact with the devil: Doctor Faustus	101
7 Tribulations and final triumphs	113
Mann's last years	113
The Holy Sinner	115
The Black Swan	117
The Confessions of Felix Krull	120
Mann's subsequent reception and reputation	123
Notes	128
Suggested further reading	132
Index	135