

In the Shadows of the Dao

LAOZI, THE SAGE, AND THE Daodejing

THOMAS MICHAEL

SUNY PRESS

Contents

| | |
|--|----|
| Acknowledgments | xi |
| Preface | xv |
| 1. Reading the Daodejing Synthetically | 1 |
| Orientations | 1 |
| Conventions | 3 |
| Shadows | 9 |
| On the Early Daoism Label | 12 |
| 2. Modern Scholarship on the Daodejing | 15 |
| Religious and Philosophical Approaches to the Daodejing | 15 |
| Modern Western Approaches to the Daodejing | 21 |
| Modern Chinese Approaches to the Daodejing | 35 |
| 3. Traditions of Reading the Daodejing | 47 |
| Daojia , Daojiao , and Early Daoism | 47 |
| The Role of Commentary in the Daodejing | 51 |
| The Heshang Gong Commentary | 53 |

| | | |
|----|--|-----|
| | The Xiang'er Commentary | 55 |
| | The Wang Bi Commentary | 57 |
| | Three Commentaries in Comparison | 58 |
| 4. | The Daos of Laozi and Confucius | 67 |
| | Records of the Interview | 67 |
| | Glimpses into the Dao of Antiquity | 74 |
| | The Fault Line | 81 |
| | Two Disciplines of the Body | 85 |
| | Laozi and Confucius Revisited | 91 |
| 5. | Early Daoism, Yangsheng , and the Daodejing | 93 |
| | The Hiddenness of Early Daoism | 93 |
| | A Separate History | 100 |
| | Orality and the Daodejing | 103 |
| | Early Daoism and Yangsheng | 109 |
| | Two Master Traditions and a Third | 119 |
| | Yangsheng and the Daodejing | 132 |
| 6. | The Sage and the World | 139 |
| | Early Chinese Archetypes: the Sage, the King, and the General | 139 |
| | The Benefits of the Sage | 146 |
| | Qi: The Stuff of Life | 152 |
| | De: Circulation Is Not Always Virtuous | 157 |
| | De in Action | 165 |
| 7. | The Sage and the Project | 175 |
| | The Death-World | 175 |
| | Projects | 183 |
| | The Great Project of the World | 189 |
| | Salvation | 194 |

| | | |
|----|--|-----|
| 8. | The Sage and Bad Knowledge | 197 |
| | A Confucian Study Break | 197 |
| | Knowledge and Yangsheng Sequences | 201 |
| | Brightness and Yangsheng Sequences | 205 |
| | Knowledge Is a Sickness | 211 |
| | The Question of Early Daoism Revisited | 222 |
| 9. | The Sage and Good Knowledge | 225 |
| | The Second-Order Harmony | 225 |
| | Yangsheng and the Knowledge of the Sage | 229 |
| | Appendix: The Daodejing | 235 |
| | Notes | 269 |
| | Bibliography | 293 |
| | Index | 303 |