

Slavs and Tatars

MIRRORS for PRINCES

CURATOR'S
PROLOGUE
Maya Allison

p. 5

EDITOR'S
INTRODUCTION
Anthony Downey

p. 7

A CONVERSATION WITH
SLAVS AND TATARS

Anthony Downey, Beatrix Ruf

p. 19

Fate, Fortune and Governance in the Medieval World

Negin Yavari

p. 63

'On Difference' in Mirror for Princes

A VIEW FROM MIEVEAL INDIA
Manan Ahmed Asif

p. 83

Mirror for Princesses

Anna Della Subin

p. 107

Shaggy or Shaved

THE SYMBOLISM OF HAIR AMONG PERSIAN
QALANDAR SUFIS

Lloyd Ridgeon

p. 129

APPENDIX:
Chapter Two of Arbāb al-ṭarīq

p. 151

Echo Translation

David Crowley

p. 155

BIBLIOGRAPHY

p. 179

BIOGRAPHIES

p. 186

COLOPHON/
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

p. 188

Bilgili kişi dil için özü bir söz söyledi;
Başım gözet, ey dil sahibi.

قال أحد الحكماء في حق اللسان:
راقب رأسك يا صاحب اللسان،

The sage has laid down for the tongue these ripe words of wisdom, so guard your head, you who have a tongue!