

Atlas of the Gulf States

By

Philippe Cadène and Brigitte Dumortier

BRILL

LEIDEN • BOSTON
2013

Contents

Introduction	1	Dissimilar Territories
The Gulf: A Strategic Space between the Sea and the Desert		The State of Kuwait	56
A Semi-enclosed Sea	6	Saudi Arabia's Eastern Province	58
An Area of Continual Movement	8	The Kingdom of Bahrain	60
The Crossroads of Civilizations	10	The Emirate of Qatar	62
A Muslim World	12	The Federation of the United Arab Emirates	64
Singular States	14	The Emirates of Abu Dhabi and Dubai	66
Water Scarcity	16	The Emirates of Ajman and Sharjah	68
Oases and Pastoral Nomadism	18	The Northern Emirates	70
Marine Resources	20	North Oman	72
		The Iranian Coast of the Gulf	74
The Gulf: The Heart of the World's Energy Reserves		The Iraqi Governorate of Basra	76
Petroleum, a Complex Sector	24	Urban Societies
Oil Production and Reserves	26	Basra City	80
Gas Production and Reserves	28	Kuwait City	82
Processing and Transport of Oil and Gas	30	Greater Dammam	84
Numerous Tensions	32	The Oasis City of al-Ahsa	86
		Manama, an Island Capital	88
A Speedy and Radical Transformation		Greater Doha	90
Influx of Migrants	36	The Island and the City of Abu Dhabi	92
Spectacular Urban Growth	38	The Coastal Conurbation of Dubai-Sharjah-Ajman	94
Quality Infrastructure	40	The al-Ain-Buraimi Oases	96
Developing an Industrial Sector	42	Muscat's Capital Region	98
Free Zones and Special Economic Zones	44	Sohar and Sur: Two Cities on the Gulf of Oman	100
Explosion of Finance and Real Estate Sectors	46	The Port City of Bandar Abbas	102
The Rise of Tourism	48	Abadan and Khorramshahr: Two Oil Cities	104
Towards a Knowledge Society	50	Integration of Metropolitan Areas	106
The Gulf Cooperation Council	52	Conclusion	108
		Bibliography	111
		Index	115